

ABSTRACT

A door hinge mounting structure for vehicles comprises a bracket having a closed cross-section. A coupling nut is coupled to the bracket via a plurality of flanges and a coupling bolt. The coupling bolt also has a guide portion, such that an easy assembly allows a door hinge to be securely and stably coupled to a door, thereby reducing maintenance of the door hinge assembly and providing a firm support for the door to the vehicle body.